

Editorial

"Logistics and Transport" is a semi-annual magazine which has been published by International School of Logistics and Transport in Wrocław since 2005. Scientific works of authors from various countries are published in the magazine, including France, Germany, Czech Republic, Slovak Republic, Ukraine and Poland of course. Over the years, the magazine has received positive opinions, with 6 points scored in scientific journal (published by the Ministry of Science and Higher Education) being the most prestigious one.

"Logistics and Transportation" is a periodical mainly addressed towards academic environment; technical, economic and managerial universities as well as towards specialists in logistics, transportation and forwarding. It also aims at students of such majors as logistics, management or production engineering and management.

The magazine mainly publishes the following:

- Scientific articles that present various aspects of modern logistics, transportation and crisis management from different perspectives,
- Messages from scientific researches conducted in home country and abroad
- Case studies,
- Books reviews (Polish and foreign ones) and articles briefings being published in Polish and foreign scientific or professional periodicals,
- Information from scientific conferences connected with logistics and transportation.

"Logistics and Transportation" gives a great opportunity to present your opinions, to join into a discussion on transportation and logistics. It also serves the purpose of upgrading logistics and transportation standards in Poland. Last but not least, it helps to built up one's scientific output.

Starting from this issue all articles in "Logistics and Transport" will be published in English version only. Also, each issue will be accompanied by a CD with Polish version of the articles. All the texts submitted will be evaluated by two reviewers from the International Scientific Committee. Such a procedure will ensure a high standard of all articles published which will result in the magazine being enlisted as a IF (impact factor) publication, issued by Journal Citation Reports. We aim at upgrading standards of our magazine not only locally, but internationally too.

The evaluation of the articles submitted covers four aspects: the evaluation of the subject matter in the light of similar materials in Polish and foreign scientific publications, the evaluation of the method of the text compilation, the evaluation of the content and substance and also the evaluation of the form.

The International Scientific Committee includes renowned professors specializing in logistics and transportation. They come from various higher education institutions and universities of technical, economic and managerial profile, from Poland, France, Germany, Slovak Republic, Czech Republic and Ukraine. The combination of their knowledge and critical insight into scientific, technical and economic aspects of logistics and transportation will ensure high standard of the materials published.

Chief Editor

Prof. Tomasz Nowakowski

